In early 2016 I was asked if I would lend some Banksy works to a major show in Rome, billed as the biggest ever show of Banksy's. I readily agreed and at the same time suggested exhibiting some of the record covers I had been collecting for some time. The museum had very strict criteria for acceptance.

My collection was incomplete, so I asked my (now) friend Dr. Forrest if he would consider lending his amazing complete collection of Banksy records and he most generously said yes.

The lenders of the art expected a superb, fully illustrated catalogue with every item listed & photographed. Over a year after the show opened it has not happened.

So I have put this exhibition to show the great cross-over between musical artists and Fine Art artists. Many artists cross the boundaries between the two creative forms – David Bowie studied at the Royal College of Art Damien Hirst is in a band, John Lennon's prints are very collected and Bob Dylan paints etc.

I hope you enjoy seeing another side to the artist known as Banksy.
